MONTHS AND CARS PLENTY.

ncreasing the Popularity of the In

The train records show that there were received and forwarded at Indianapolis in the week ended May 19 a total of 26,813 cars, 20,001 being loaded, 355 more loaded cars than were handled at this point in the corresponding week of 1899, but 431 fewer than in the week ended May 12. If grain shipments were averaging with former years in May, business would now be largely in excess of former years, but the grain movement is the lightest in any May for many years. Usually, at this season of the year, oats and corn are moving in large quantities, while this month, thus far, shipments have been exceedingly light, and empty grain cars are to be seen in considerable numbers on sidetracks, for the first time in the last eighteen months. Fortunately in other lines of freight there is a heavy movement-in lumber, provisions, live stock, produce, stone and coal. The use of coal by local manufacturers, instead of natural gas, continues, and will continue unless the natural gas companies find some method for furnishing more gas. The Vandalia, the Indianapolis & Vincennes and the Big Four are handling as much coal daily as before natural gas was brought into this territory. Local business continues heavy beyond precedent, local manufacturers being heavy shippers of the many lines of goods this city turns out. Indianapolis merchants had a big week. Low rates brought in a great number of people, among them many retail merchants, who were liberal buyers; and, while through business showed a falling off, lo-MONEY—To loan on Indiana farms; lowest market rate; privilege for payment before due; we also buy municipal bonds. Modest People Who Believe in Practicing What They Preach-The Lighthouse Mission.

The Seventh-day Adventists of the State are now holding a called meeting for the purpose of getting the representative men that have known about it, I suppose, have of the church together for a general praise service. Although Saturday was their Sunled by W. A. Ebert, of Franklin, and the services at 10 o'clock was addressed by Elder R. S. Donnell, president of the Indiana and Tithing, or Systematic Benevolence." He dealt at length with the various methcds of securing money for the church, holding the free will offering above all. He also said that the hour of judgment spoken of in the Bible is now upon us and the old biblical prophecy is being fulfilled.

The afternoon meeting at 3 o'clock was addressed by Elder Davis, of Evansville. He preached from John xx, 22: "And when he had said this he breathed on them, and saith unto them, 'Receive ye the Holy Chost.' " He said that although these words were spoken 1900 years ago they have not lost their force and that the admonition is applicable to-day. The text, he said, is an inspiration to life, something for which all Christians hunger, a hunger that can only be satisfied by constant longing and application to the divine law. The Aiventists are a very modest people and believe in practicing what they preach. The Lighthouse Mission and church on South Capitol avenue, where the meetings are being held, is a monument to their religion. The entire two-story building and basement has been leased and converted into a hotel and chapel. The upstairs is tilled with iron bunks, the ground floor has dinning-room and chapel and the basenent contains a bath room and reading apartment. The price of lodging is ten cents and access to the sleeping rooms is only gained through the bath room. All lodgers must go this way, bathe, leave their clothes on a rack and don a fumigated night shirt before going to bed. While they sleep their clothes are fumigated and rerlaced on the rack ready to be put on in the morning. By strictly enforcing these rigid rules the beds are neat and clean and there is no chance for the place to become infected with disease. In the dining-room meals are served as low as 6 cents. The place is comparatively new and is not yet self-supporting, but the church makes up the deficit by voluntary subscription.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 20.-In the presence of seven thousand spectators the Indianapolis team exhibited its prowess today by defeating Milwaukee by a score of 11 to 8. The victory of the visitors was more easily accomplished than the score exhibits, batting Wheeler out of the box and treating Rettger to severe punishment in two innings, while outside of the first, second and ninth innings Dammann escaped without a scratch and pitched gilt-edged ball. For four innings the score was close, but then the heavy hitting of Indianapolis began to tell, and after that there was no doubt where the victory would perch. In the ninth inning, however, the Milwaukees made a strong bid, but a marvelous catch by Seybold, of Burke's terrific line drive to deep center, saved his team from annihilation, as Smith followed with a single; Yea- ing was magnificent with men on bases. ger, who batted for Rettger, hit for two Not so with Kennedy, for the locals manbases; a gift and two errors followed in aged to bunch their hits on him in three quick succession, and Anderson planted a innings. The fielding was loose, and three of the errors made by the Milwaukees proved disastrous, but Indianapolis also played poorly at times, Powers's error of judgment in the second inning giving the Milwaukees an opportunity to score three runs. Magoon's fielding was sensational, and the batting of Seybold, Madison, Hartzel and Hogriever was wonderful, while brilliant catches by Garry, Anderson, Burke, Hartsel and Seybold roused the enthusiasm of the spectators. The heaviest hitting was done in the fifth inning, when Seybold opened on Wheeler with a home-run drive over the left-field fence, Madison and Powers singled and Hogriever capped the climax with a two-baser to deep center, resulting in the withdrawal of Wheeler from

The 5,500 national banks in the United States are compelled to use yearly in publishing their official statements space played brilliant ball in center. Attendance, equivalent to that contained in eight hundred pages of ordinary newspaper size. This is required by law, but since many banks repeat their statements in different publications it is safe to assume that twice the estimated space is used in setting forth the details of condition at stated intervals. To show what this means, it may be stated that eight hundred pages of the average seven-column newspaper, twenty inches to the page, represent 1,568,000 agate lines. had been climbing it for years. Why the banks, year in and year out, will continue to throw away money in printing statements that mean nothing to ninetenths of their patrons, without recognizing the fact that no good will ever accrue from it is a mystery that has never been solved. The people certainly want to know the standing of the institution with which they do business, or expect to do business, but as long as they are confronted with a string of bookkeeping entries, and nothing else, they will never gain much knowledge on the point, unless they employ the services of an expert. If bank officers doubt this let them ask some of their customers to analyze a recent official statement. The controller's call, or a state call, of course, requires a definite form, but aside from this about one-quarter of a million dollars' worth of space in good local papers is being wasted yearly by the banks simply be-ties of their own business.

Climbing in Congress. Washington Letter in Philadelphia Record The race up the ladder in this Congress began soon after the opening of the present session. A man from Maine made a sudden dash up the rounds and shot away up in the blue ethereal, becoming in a twinkling the most conspicuous figure on it. In two hours he went higher than men who question, however, as to how long he will last. Maine will undoubtedly lose a congressman in the new apportionment, reducing the number of her delegates from four to three. One of the four must be left out. The astute Burleigh, the unassuming Amos Allen and the veteran Boutelle will not be apt to give way to a new-come without a bitter struggle. The fact that Littlefield has been conscientious in his attitude against the policy of the friends of the administration would hardly be effective as an argument for driving out any of its tried friends. There is a representative from Indiana who has also made a miraculous spu since Alfred C. Harmer, late father of the House, administered the oath of office to David B. Henderson. He is Charles B Landts, of Delphi. It might be well for him to consult the celebrated oracle of Delphi before opening his campaign. Singular as it may seem he is said to be in danger for not following the blaze made by Littlefield. Edgar D. Crumpacker, of the same State, at the same time gained several rounds of the ladder by preserving an eloquent silence when the Porto Rican bill was under consideration, and by voting against it. Silent men frequently take the lead by some unexpected action, where experienced climbers slip from a rung an maintain their equilibrium with great dif-
